Margaret Moats Hall

Margaret Hall, of Raleigh, N.C., earned three degrees from West Virginia University, including her MSE in 1980.

Beginning her career with IBM Corporation in 1977, she served in positions from Systems Engineer for the Data Processing Division, to World Wide Operations Program Manager for IBM Global Business Services. After 32 years of service to IBM, Hall retired in 2009.

Among her many contributions to WVU, she has chaired the WVU Industrial Engineering Advisory Organization and remains as an active member. In addition, she is a member of the Statler College of Engineering and Mineral Resources Advisory Committee. In 1996, she was inducted into the WVU Academy of Industrial Engineers and served as its president from 2003 until 2014. In 2014, Margaret received the Jasper N. Deahl Alumni Award presented by the College of Education and Human Services. Margaret remains a loyal Mountaineer and supports the WVU Alumni Association’s Research Triangle Chapter.

Her husband, Jay, originally from Morgantown, holds two degrees from West Virginia University in electrical engineering. Daughter, Megan M Hall, NCSU graduate in Graphic Design. MFA Zurich School of the Arts.