Problem: West Virginia has a decline in quality medical care, due to hospital's closing and doctors leaving the state.

Solution:

I have created a medical care robot "MCR", that will scan humans and diagnose them. The scanner also helps to check their status with computer screens that are hooked up to the robot that can read the body and determine their health. The keyboard is operated by engineers so if it breaks down, they can reprogram it.
Small white medical care robot "MCR"